The first edition was sent forth under a feeling of uncertainty. It was a pioneer in a new field. The territory was one of rich promise, but as yet unexplored and unoccupied. In presenting what purported to be guide to this region there was a heavy responsibility assumed. But all that was expected and hoped of the building association system has been and is still developing. The building association is now a fixed institution, with its mission and its limitations well defined. It has secured universal recognition, and is working out its own destiny. It is not yet perfect, but under the operation of evolutionary processes, theories, plans, and detail operations, are steadily progressing and improving. The material out of which to make such a book as this has increased wonderfully during the three years which have elapsed since the first edition was issued. Numerous books on the subject have been published, during this time. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
